

Jean-Baptiste Fastrez Chantico oil lamp

Ref. : JBF 18

Enamelled ceramic, metal tubes, L. 15 cm x w. 15cm x H. 50 cm glass, brass and cotton wicks Weight : 3 kg

Made in Italy

3D file available on moustache.fr

JB F 18
glossy blue

JB F 18
glossy black

JB F 18
glossy white

A xenomorphic egg or an unidentified mechanical element, the Chantico oil lamp by Jean-Baptiste Fastrez revisits the typology by anchoring it in Aztec mythology through its name and in a contemporary mythology in the making through its design. Goddess of the hearth and the furnace in Aztec mythology, Chantico is also the goddess of volcanic and terrestrial fire, and is the wife of Xiuhtecuhtli, the god of fire.

Precautions for use :

Liquid wax not included. Do not leave the burning object unsupervised. Make sure the flames are far from any other object.